Time through to San Francisco.................5½ days
" " New York ....12 "

☞ Passengers allowed to lay over along the route. Those who travel by this route avoid the dangers of the sea and that dreaded and terrible feeling of sea-sickness. The wild picturesque scenery, beautiful valleys and snow capped mountains, alone, doubly pay the tourist for a trip over this route.

The route passes through the principal agricultural districts of Oregon, the valleys of the Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue River. To the immigrant coming here in search of a home or investment, this route is strongly recommended.

CLEAR THE DIRT!

HOW?

BY USING STANDARD SOAP CO.'S

WASHING POWDERS.

CAUTION.—OWING TO THE MANY IMITATIONS of this article, persons should be very cautious and purchase none but that branded "Standard Soap Company, of San Francisco," on packages and boxes. The imitations are palmed off by dealers, because of a greater profit to themselves. The great demand for this powder is a sure guarantee of its qualities for washing purposes. It saves time and labor, and does not injure the finest fabric. Sold by all Grocers. Try Standard Soap Co.'s Detersive Soap. ap21d3m

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 20.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Nye called up the bill amending the act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast by the Southern route. The bill is known as the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad bill, and extends the time for construction. The company may obtain the right of way through the Indian Territory. The bill was discussed and laid aside.

Sherman called up the bill to reduce internal taxes and amendments of Finance Committee. The proposition to strike out 1st, 3d and 4th sections, imposing special taxes, was agreed to. The next three sections inserted in lieu thereof provide for the repeal after May 1st, 1870, of all special taxes except on spirits, tobacco and beer. Agreed to. The 4th section, for partial repeal of the stamp tax, was agreed to. The income tax section was discussed by Sherman in favor of retention and Corbett against. The bill went over as special business on Thursday.

In the House Schenck reported a bill organizing a Department of Internal Revenue under a Commissioner, which reduces the number of employees one-third, and repudiates informers and spies. The bill was made the special order for next Wednesday.

Poland, from the Select Committee, reported Representatives Fitch and McCormick completely exonerated from the charge or suspicion, or even complicity in any scheme sustaining the Cuban cause, by use of improper influences.

The Senate amendment to the House joint resolution relative to the suspension of the sale of certain lands in California, was concurred in by a vote of 94 to 72.

The revised edition of the regulations concerning distillation from fruit, allows the distiller to give bond in double the amount of tax on the brandy the still is capable of producing in thirty days, but the bond will never be less than $500. The distillery is taxed $50 per annum.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—There were many absentees from the House when vote was being taken on Whittemore's case yesterday, the majority of whom were dodging in cloak rooms. Whittemore feels very bitter toward Gen. Logan for the manner in which he has pursued him in this matter. He says Logan promised before he went back to South Carolina, that should he be returned by his constituents he would not oppose his admission. Whittemore will return to South Carolina and run for the 42d Congress. He says that so long as Logan remains at the head of his pursuers, his constituents will stand by him.

The House Committee on Commerce have decided to report favorably on Bennett's bill to enlarge the Erie Canal and ultimately make it free from toll. The bill involves the guarantee of interest on bonds amounting to $900,000, with provisions for their payment, principal and interest, out of toll. The Committee ask that the bill be set for consideration some time after the 1st of January next.

Brooks, of New York, member of the Committee of Ways and Means, authorized the statement that the Committee has resolved to report no bill or amendment at this session in Congress in relation to whisky and tobacco or fermented liquors. These articles, therefore, remain for another year under the present rate of taxation, unless Congress revises the action of the Committee.

Trial of Fenians.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., June 22.—The U. S. Circuit Court was opened yesterday, Judge Woodruff presiding. A. M. Dursheimer, District Attorney, appeared as prosecutor of Fenian prisoners. The Grand Jury had before them many Fenian officers and citizens, but found no bills. Forty "know nothing" witnesses are here from Malone. Marshal Dunnby's deputies seem to have subpœnaed all who know nothing, and it is questionable whether any one will be needed except Gleason, Starr and Thompson. Judge Woodruff charged very strongly against Fenians, and dwelt upon the necessity of vigorous enforcement of the neutrality laws, as a raid upon Canada, a friendly power, were villainous and criminal. Starr, Manif, Glast, McNeal and Fitzpatrick appeared for trial, but others are so far non est. It is understood that Starr will demand immediate trial, and others will waive a preliminary examination, and the cases will go over to the October term at Albany.

Billiard Match.

SPRINGFIELD, June 22.—Joseph and Cyrile Dion played a match game of billiards, 1,200 points carom, against Frank Dennison, of this city, and Geo Stone, of Norwich, in the Opera House last evening. Dennison and Stone won by 1,200 to 918. Dion gave them 300.

St. Louis Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—750 Chinamen arrived from Omaha last night. They leave for New Orleans to night.

Letters from the Plains report that nearly all the young Indians that belong to the Arrapahoes and Cheyenne tribes below Arkansas River are on the war-path. Several trains have been captured and a number of whites killed. It is very dangerous for travel of any kind below Fort Dodge.

Wheat and Flour.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Shipping grades of wheat advanced 4@5c; flour advanced 10c. Fair demand for wheat, mainly speculative. Few purchasers for Germany and England. Bonded Canada rye sold at $1. Private cable dispatches say that Havre prices are no lower yet. French buyers are not in the market to day. Liverpool reports are no better. English shippers are buying slightly on adverse margins. The market is devoid of excitement, closing quiet, because prime samples are limited. Receipts of 750,000 bushels per week. The latest mail dates from Europe, especially from the continent, are gloomy. It is not believed that the showers last week will repair the wide spread and serious distress caused by the drought. Exports of wheat to Europe since September 1st were over 16,000,000 bushels.

Base Ball.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The game of base ball between the Athletes of Philadelphia, and the famous Red Stockings of Cincinnati, came off at the capital grounds, and resulted in a victory for the Red Stockings, though the play was not so close as in great match games heretofore. Red Stockings, 27. Athletes, 25.

Miscellaneous.

BUFFALO, June 22.—The United States Grand Jury of Canandaigua county has indicted Gen. Starr, for violation of the neutrality laws. The case is set for Monday, and Donnelly, Gleason and Fitzpatrick will be indicted.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—W. H. Upson was nominated for Congress to day by the Republicans of the 16th District.

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—The proposed amendment to the State Constitution, to strike out the word white, was defeated by the Legislature: yeas 112, nays 169, requiring two-thirds vote to carry it.

BY THE CABLES.

LONDON, June 22.—Deaths by accident on the Great Western Railroad are said now to number seventeen. By collision to-day of two trains near Newcastle, several persons were injured, two badly. None killed.

West Indies.

HAVANA, June 22.—Several shocks of earthquake were felt at Windward Island on the 9th. The tidal wave at Guadalupe covered a great extent of land, and suddenly dragged vessels far out to sea.

Last evening the Council passed a bill for the gradual disestablishment of the Church.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Mayor Selby publishes an offer of $5,000 reward for discovery and punishment of parties who perpetrated fraud in the return of the first ward election for subsidy to Southern Pacific Railroad. Detectives are said to have already some clue which will probably lead to the detection of the criminals.

The Coroner's Jury in San Mateo county, in the case of the death of Louis Seligman of this city, found a verdict of suicide by chloroform. Deceased was 35 years old and had been in California since '52. He kept a cigar store on Pacific street, between Kearny and Dupont. The gross amount of money found in his possession is about $12,000. He had also in his possession the draft of a will by which it appears he intended to bequeath to the Congregation Sherith Israel $6,000 and a similar sum to the German Hospital on Bryant street. As the will was not signed, the property goes into the hands of the public administrator. The cause of the suicide is a mystery. The funeral will take place to-day.

Notwithstanding his being a few days over age, Frank Holmes is to have the Annapolis cadetship, Axtell having telegraphed to have him sent on.

[illegible] and crew of the wrecked steamer [illegible] arrived at Humboldt Bay on the afternoon of the 17th inst., too late to come by the steamer Eureka. They will probably arrive by the next steamer.

The Board of Education have accepted an invitation for the entire School Department to join in the 4th of July procession.

Advices from Honolulu by the D. C. Murray to the 1st of June say the Legislative Assembly is discussing the question of a reciprocity treaty with the British colonies in case that with the United States is not ratified.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Owing to the accident to the steamer Henry Chauncey, the Ocean Queen has been placed on the line between New York and Aspinwall and sailed for the latter port on the 21st inst. with 300 passengers and 620 tons freight for San Francisco.

After the first of July the North Pacific Transportation Co. will dispatch a steamer for Portland every Saturday morning.

Leon Bensinger, a young man who once robbed the Mercantile Library of valuable specimens and got off with 9 months in jail, was arrested on two charges of grand larceny. It is supposed that he robbed Weil & Co of two hundred dollars worth of the finest imported cigars and spent the proceeds in gambling. He would go to the store with a large pasteboard box under his arm and enquire for one of the partners who he knew to be out, and, watching his opportunity, fill the box with cigars, walk off unsuspected.

A savage affray took place near the Five Mile House, on the San Bruno road, between William Troy and Henry Prague, in which the latter was severely cut in the head and chest. Troy was arrested, charged with assault to do bodily injury.

The Neuval-Diamond murder trial is progressing this evening. The prosecution has concluded the testimony of Mrs. McCarthy, and introduced the testimony of two respectable girls, Misses Murray and Hudson, who had worked for Miss Diamond. One testified that the day before the deed was made under which Neuval obtained possession of Miss Diamond's property, she saw at least $900 or $1,000. This testimony was considered improbable as going to show that the error of the defense was in saying that the deed was given in good faith and for a valuable consideration, and that she was bankrupt and wholly dependent upon him was untenable. Not one-tenth of those who apply are able to obtain admission to the court room. No case tried for many years has attracted so much attention.

Stocks at the Evening Board were generally stronger. Sales included 3310 Treasure: 460 Savage; 94 Jacket. Treasure, 9; Noonday, 2½; Mammoth, 5½; Nevada, 8½; Savage, 41½; Norcross, 91; Point, 9; Chollar, 25½; Imperial, 34; Ophir, 12½; Curry, 64; Belcher, 8½; Overman, 55; Jacket, 49½.

A Plea for Boys.

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

"I do believe that the very spirit of mischief is in that boy! From morning till night it is out of one thing into another. There is nothing safe when he's about."

"Why don't you whip him?"

"Whip him? There is hardly a day goes over his head that he is not punished, besides the grand totals that are paid off by his father about once a fortnight."

"Is he ugly? Do you think he means to do wrong?"

"That's the worst of it. He has as kind a heart as needs be, and is always so sorry. But it does no good. The minute my back is turned he is tying up the two cats, or putting chairs before the door to see them tumble over when some one opens it, or pouncing out of a corner suddenly upon Sally, whose screams seem to delight him. Yesterday he got the scissors and began to cut his own hair. A perfect fright he made of himself. He tied Aunt Prue's dress to the back of her rocking chair, the other day, so that when she got up the chair got up too. Only a week ago he put a wick into his father's bottle of bear's grease and set it on fire, and yesterday he must needs collect all the tooth powder he could find in the house and mix it in a tumbler with lamp oil, to paint the bureau with! Oh dear! I am never at rest a minute with him, except when he is out doors at play. There is somebody scolding down stairs, or crying out up stairs; and when there is silence, I know that some particular mischief is hatching. I've talked and talked to him. But there is no use in it. He is sorry and will not do so again; and that seems to act like an absolution and he is ready with a cheerful heart for the next prank. Oh, if Robert was only half as good as Mr. Goodking James! Well, if I ever live to see him grow up, I hope that I shall have some comfort in the boy, for heaven knows I have very little now."

Now, we take the boy's side. We know just how he feels, and just what the mother is.

A fine organization and high health fill the lad to overflowing with animal spirits, and the parents are trying to cork it up, and in spite of them, nature drives out the cork. The parents are in regular occupations and have no surplus vitality to vex them. But vigorous boys generate a vast deal of motive force for which no regular channels are provided.

In a family where all the children work at some appropriate trade, boys are less likely to fall into mischief. This is one reason why it is easier to bring up children on a farm than in town. It is true that there are fewer temptations. But the main reason is that there is a legitimate channel for the boys' energies to flow in. Govern boys by keeping them busy! Now and then there are bad natures that will go perversely wrong. But ordinarily boys do not do wrong on purpose. Their high spirits get them into mischief, and then they go wrong for the sake of avoiding the consequences. Work off the steam and there will be less pressure and fewer explosions.

And now comes the very question for which all this has been said. What shall we do with boys? What shall parents do, who live in town and cities? What shall professional men do whose children cannot participate in their parent's work?

Instead of keeping them anxiously within doors, thrust them out as much as possible. Do not let watching become spying. Let children have sports and companions, and unwatched liberty. Put them upon their honor. Boys will early respond to this. Do not make too much of their mistakes and faults. How can one be a child and not be full of faults? Explain their mistakes gently. Be patient! Wait for them! Children must have time to grow. Somebody had to wait for you. Never let fear make a gulf between the child and you. Within due bounds liberty is the best thing for a child, as it is for a man. It will lead to irregularities, but out of these will come experience, and gradually, self-control. The object of all family government is to teach children to get along without being governed. They must therefore be trusted, even if they abuse it, they must be trusted. Keep them busy with pleasant work, if possible. Awake in them curiosity about the things which lie around them. A very little instruction will make children curious about plants, minerals, natural history, of literary curiosities, autographs, postage-stamp collections, and a thousand things which will inspire pleasure in their reason rather than in their appetites.

Never scold children, but soberly and quietly reprove. Do not employ shame except in extreme cases. The suffering is acute, it hurts self-respect in the child, to reprove a child before the family; to ridicule it, to tread down its feelings ruthlessly, is to awake in its bosom malignant feelings. A child is defenceless; he is not allowed to argue. He is often tried, condemned, and executed in a second. He finds himself of little use. He is put at things he don't care for, and withheld from things that he does like, he is made the convenience of grown up people, is hardly supposed to have any rights, except in a corner, as it were, [illegible] is sent hither and thither, made to get up or sit down for everybody's convenience but his own, is snubbed and catechised until he learns to dodge government and elude authority, and then be whipped for being "such a lying whelp that no one can believe you."

Well, well; girls may have the hardest time of it in after life, but for the first fifteen years boys are the sufferers.—Christian Union.

How the Democracy Vote—Democratic Authority.

The San Francisco Monitor is an unflinching Democratic paper, but it does not consider itself called upon to defend all the guilty practices of the party. Speaking of "The way they vote in New York," it says:

The commercial metropolis of the nation is unique. It does everything in a style peculiar to itself; no half-way measures there. It boasts of the greatest luxury and the most heartrending suffering; of the most ostentatious wealth and the most squalid poverty; of the most retiring virtue and the most brazen vice, there the honest man is despised and the notorious ruffian rewarded; an embargo is placed on integrity and a premium on rascality. There thousands of loafers receive millions a year from the city treasury for services they never perform, with the knowledge and connivance of the regularly constituted officials, who subsidize them at the public expense so as to have them on hand to vote at the elections. The other day there was an election in New York for Judges. Here is a synopsis of the mode adopted to make sure the result, as copied from the New York World, a Democratic journal:

"In no election for years past has the business of repeating been carried on in a more open and shameless manner than it was yesterday. The police made not the slightest effort to prevent it, though they saw it done continually before their eyes, and they refused to arrest men for doing it when called upon by citizens, and even magistrates, saying that they had been placed under orders of the Inspectors, and would make no arrests except requested to do so by them. In some cases the repeaters would walk out of the polling places into the middle of the street, and in the face and eyes of the police would change their coats and hats, receive their new names from their leaders, and start for the next poll to repeat their ballots. Repeating was carried on as usual, and with the usual success. In some of the districts the register lists were never consulted—a fact which made repeating and other illegal voting comparatively easy. Police Justice Edward Hogan was at the polls, 82 Greenwich street, waiting for his turn to vote, when a man ahead of him presented himself to vote in the name of the Judge. The Judge himself challenged the fellow's vote, but the Inspector refused to pay any attention to the challenge, and allowed the man to vote. The magistrate then called upon a policeman at the polls to arrest the illegal voter, but the policeman refused unless he was directed to do so by one of the Inspectors; and so the illegal voter escaped and the Judge lost his vote."

It concludes as follows:

San Francisco is bad enough, and does considerable of the "colonizing" and "importing" business; but New York so far exceeds her that our roughs must hide their heads for shame.

Jewels for the Million.

Ladies who are fond of jewelry, and who may regard operations in jewels as more brilliant and attractive than investments in real estate, will be interested to learn that the chemists are making important progress in the work of making them artificially. Of course, we do not allude to the imitations of the diamond in paste, or of emerald, sapphire, ruby, and amethyst in colored glass, but to the manufacture of gems which are identical, so far as their component materials are concerned, with the products of nature. The crystallization of carbon into diamond dust has long since been familiar to chemists, though the artificial process has not yet been so perfected as to attain for its product either the hardness, brilliancy, or size which are necessary to vie with the diamond of commerce.

A student of Liebig, M. Zchweskoffsky, has recently made an important advance in this field of discovery, which is no less interesting from the promise it affords that all the leading gems may yet be manufactured artificially, than from the indication it gives of the mode in which natural gems were formed. This Russian chemist has discovered or compounded a series of silicious and aluminiferous ethers or vapors containing the elements of silex or quartz and aluminum or feldspar volatilized. These compounds, when poured into a wine glass, after being colored with the oxides of various metals, instantaneously produce original gems of the same chemical constituency as those which have been naturally formed. The other, colored with pure oxide of iron, produces the ruby, colored with copper, it yields sapphire, with maganese amethyst; with nickle, emerald, though the substance which in nature colors the emerald is not nickle but the oxide of beryllium, a substance found only in the emerald and beryl, with chrome salt, it produces different shades of topaz. The result shows by synthesis, that these gems are crystals of quartz or aluminum, colored by the oxides of the various metals. As the former are the basis of the materials from which glass is made, and the latter are the materials with which it is colored, it therefore follows that the imitations of gems in colored glass do also bring together essentially the same chemical substances which meet in the gems themselves. The effort therefore, of M. Zchweskoffsky to combine these materials in a manner to reproduce the original gem, depends for its success upon his attaining the same hardness which is imparted to the gem. This has not yet been done, and it is conceded that in some way it can only be obtained where the crystalization takes place under great heat and pressure. It is not impossible, however, that the manufacture of pure jewels may yet be a branch of ordinary industry. It would certainly be appropriate that when by the advent of woman suffrage, the sovereignty passes to Bridget and Dinah, the crown jewels should also be placed within their reach.

Gen. Lindsay, of the Canadian forces, has said sarcastic things in speeches complimenting the Canadians for their "bravery" in defeating the disorganized Fenians on the border line. In his speech of thanks, giving an account of the Canadian volunteers, he said:

"What I particularly would ask you to remember now is that the success of the day was due chiefly to the accuracy of the firing."

At the battle of Trout River there were drawn up 2,200 Canadian soldiers, within half range of about 180 Fenians who had "invaded" Canada. The Fenians were without a commander, and, when the firing began, soon began to retreat. During a half hour of their retreating the 2,200 Canadians blazed away at the 180 Fenians at half range, and managed to kill one of them a shot, no doubt, from a "Canadian volunteer" who was cross-eyed. Keen was Gen. Lindsay's sarcasm when he complimented the Canadians on their "accuracy of firing."

IMMIGRATION.—The New York Herald of June 8th has this. The cry of "Still they come" does not adequately express the overflow of the people of Europe on our shores, for they come more freely than ever. Two thousand a day was the average of last week, making for six days a fair figure over twelve thousand. Two incoming ships brought upward of fifteen hundred each.

The Daily Oregonian

FRIDAY MORNING JUNE 24 1870

Let the Move be Made

[illegible] the Herald [illegible] that [illegible] railroad will [illegible] very injur[illegible] That [illegible] Portland the principal city [illegible] its favorite [illegible] accordingly that the railroad [illegible] be regard[illegible] as a [illegible] that is [illegible] Few [illegible] will look at the situation in this light We have heretofore given reasons [illegible] west side of the Wallamet river [illegible] crossed in three minutes and hardly [illegible] mudable than the Schuylkill that flows [illegible] of Phila[illegible] should ever [illegible] both sides of the [illegible] must improve and expand [illegible] importance East Portland is certain to become a place of consequence if Portland ever becomes a good sized city and on the other hand East Portland cannot be built up without outleansing Portland to grow and expand It is idle to regard two places so situated as rivals Such a view is essentially a narrow one and betokens an inability to comprehend the great future of this city and the State. Besides there will undoubtedly be a railroad traversing the west side of the valley and having its terminus here That terminus will probably be above or below the city and not nearer the present business center of the place than East Portland is Yet we would not argue that a west side railroad having its depot on the river a mile below the foot of Washington street would cause the removal of the whole city down there or destroy the value of property in the now central part of the city The Herald urges leading property holders in Portland to bestir themselves and do something to maintain the ascendancy of this city against East Portland While we don't think that Portland is in danger of being swallowed up by East Portland yet we regard the Herald's suggestion as a timely one. It is time something were done for Portland and for Oregon by those here who are able to do it They have had opportunities enough, but have let them pass unheeded. If now they will inaugurate measures which will lead to the certain and speedy construction of the west side road as they are able to do and might have done some time ago, there will be reason for public gratulation If men who are known to be responsible will take hold of that enterprise and pledge themselves to carry it on, there will be some ground for public confidence in it, and past blunders may be amended and the stigma of incompetency and irresponsibility may be removed. But nothing will be accomplished by grumbling about the progress of the railroad on the opposite side of the river By all means let this move, which the Herald is calling for, be made.

Political Prospects

It is encouraging to note the progress which the Republican party is making in the Pacific States and Territories Especially do late elections show gratifying gains in Oregon, and in the Territories of Washington and Idaho. This gain is so general as to indicate a very considerable political movement, and to show that the causes producing it are not ephemeral Their continued operation will make Oregon and Idaho securely Republican in 1872, as Washington now is. The same causes are undoubtedly operating in California and Nevada The last named State is certainly Republican, and recent municipal elections in the principal towns show that the Republican strength is increasing California was lost to the Republicans three years ago by a split in the party, but the signs are favorable for a Republican triumph in that State at the next election But whatever may be the political status of California it is obvious that changes are taking place in Oregon and in the adjoining Territories which are highly favorable to the prospects of the Republican party

Before the war Oregon was largely Democratic But during the war large numbers of patriotic Democrats deserted the organization and acted with the Republicans This left the Democratic party in a minority But during the progress of the war and immediately after its close, such accessions to the population of the State, from Missouri and other places where the war raged took place as reinforced the Democratic party sufficiently to enable it to gain the ascendency It triumphed by the votes of men who as a Democratic paper had expressed it "were prodded out of Missouri by Yankee bayonets. For five or six years most of the immigration to our State was of that political character The consequence was that in every succeeding election the Democrats gained upon the Republicans and finally in 1868 completely defeated them

But this sort of immigration has almost wholly ceased Another kind of people are coming They are filling Oregon and Washington, and are calling for others to follow them The effect of this new movement is already seen in the Republican gains in the late election But the effect thus far is nothing like that which will be apparent in the election two years hence As this influx of immigration continues the prospects of the Democracy will steadily diminish It is an actual fact that that party though it has put forth its strongest effort and polled every vote it can command has been able to muster in Oregon and Washington no more votes than it had two years ago On the other hand the Republicans are able to show a very marked increase of strength These facts are highly significant They show unmistakably the political tendency of this part of the country and point unerringly to a complete Republican triumph in 1872

The exact explanation of the situation is simply this It was the extreme immigration that threw the State into the hands of the Democratic party two years ago But that immigration has now ceased and people of another kind are coming in numbers that will carry the State now already on the creek for the Republican party at the next general election

The Herald [illegible] the [illegible] Second Ward [illegible] and thinks that [illegible] the war [illegible] not to [illegible]

There will be a celebration of the coming Fourth of July at Wilhoit's Soda Springs, which all are invited by the Committee of Arrangements to attend

The Wheat Market

From [illegible] statistics [illegible] it is shown that the market is [illegible] that for some time the general tendency has been upward News from Liverpool shows that since the last [illegible] the advance has been about 12d per cental The San Francisco Bulletin of latest date received has the following dispatch

New York, June 11th The [illegible] markets [illegible] the demand in this market for the Continent has interrupted her supplies, and she will [illegible] feel the want of them [illegible] the most important is the falling off in the receipts of the Lake ports which according to the statistics, were for the week ending June 11th [illegible] barrels of flour [illegible] we have 300,000 bushels of wheat less than [illegible] the corresponding week last year [illegible] in connection with the increa[illegible] estimated [illegible] average

It seems to be generally conceded that there must be a further advance in prices On the 8th instant the best lots of white wheat were quoted in New York at $1 75 to $1 90 per bushel good spring at $1 30 According to New York dispatches yesterday there has since been a slight advance upon these figures During the past two months the advance in Chicago has been thirty eight and a half cents per bushel and many failures have occurred by reason of operations being caught short The general outlook seems to favor an increased demand for wheat from the Pacific coast and an improvement in prices Exportation from San Francisco will doubtless commence soon probably next month as the new crop will then begin to come forward freely During the past year as we learn from the Bulletin, 200 ships and barks were engaged in carrying wheat from that port Of these 171 vessels carrying 230,000 tons of wheat sailed for British ports The volume of wheat trade from California cannot be so large this year as the crop there falls below an average It is expected that several cargoes will be made up at Portland, to sail for foreign ports direct—that is unless the holders of wheat keep it back for prices which the market will not justify

The Interests of Southern Oregon

It is almost certain that if the people of Southern Oregon had fully understood the "railroad issue," as the same was presented here just prior to the election the returns from their counties would have told a very different story Had there been another fortnight to spare before the election, so that they could have become acquainted with the facts of the situation, they would scarcely have voted in such numbers with the party that was pressing a measure which was in every way antagonistic to their important interests The fight here, during the last week of the contest, was made by the Democrats directly against the interests of Southern Oregon and they appealed to the people to defeat the Republican party in order to make sure of defeating Senator Williams whose great offence consisted in his advocacy of a railroad project that is vital to the prosperity of Southern Oregon

The contest is over and its errors cannot now be mended The Democrats have carried the State and will elect a Senator But the people of Southern Oregon owe it to themselves to stand up for the measure which Senator Williams has inaugurated in their behalf They should see to it that their members in the Legislature vote for no one for Senator who joined in the onslaught upon the measure in which they are so vitally interested It would be madness for them to be instrumental in sending a man to the Senate who would be pledged to the enemies of their railroad interests They have it in their power to secure their rights in this regard, and they will be very short sighted if they fail to do it

They are running wild about [illegible] in California The grand gift enterprise of the Mercantile Library Association has started all California into the lottery business [illegible] latest phase of this mania is [illegible] the President has [illegible] California to pay off the [illegible] Gift Concert [illegible] the last [illegible] administration

If those of property in East Portland should be very thankful to the newspaper of this city which is predicting that [illegible] as if that paper [illegible] persons who are speculating in East Portland property

"Treating" with Indians.

A Washington correspondent of the Sacramento Union, writing under date of June 7th, gives the sketch of a reception given to the distinguished aboriginal scalp takers, and illustrates the solemnity observed when we "treat" with Indians. Of a reception at the White House he says

The chief feature of the [illegible] the spread and the manner in which these [illegible] and high bred children of nature [illegible] the provender was something astonishing to behold Spotted Tail got hold of a champagne bottle, and the cork flew into Mrs Thunder Skin's eye and wouldn't let go until he had drained it dry Red Cloud disdaining knife and spoon swallowed gooseberry pies at a mouthful and scooped ice cream into his maw by the handful "The one that runs through" also ran through an awful quantity of diet granting short satisfactory grunts the while Stuffing as they stuffed ham sandwiches ice cream veal pies [illegible] rhubarb salad and gooseberry pie sardines and [illegible] island beef cheese eggs [illegible] fish balls pork [illegible] champagne [illegible] sugar pepper and a [illegible] other thing [illegible] regard to what they were [illegible] all hands of them have to day been [illegible] other time [illegible] perhaps the policy [illegible] feeding [illegible] tor that light up [illegible] of kindness The system of feeding [illegible] think will at any rate make them [illegible] ordinary food Red Cloud says [illegible] can drink and wear the best [illegible] How [illegible] you [illegible] and several other things

ANOTHER LAND [illegible] It is currently reported that a company [illegible] has prepared a bill [illegible] the famous James [illegible] canal from Norfolk to the Ohio [illegible] to open up that great agricultural region to market and make a complete line of navigable waters main and tributary, over twenty thousand miles in extent between the Chesapeake and the Yellowstone and Saskatchewan This canal is to be made suitable for steam vessels of large size The company propose to bind themselves to complete the same within a period of not more than fifteen years The cost is estimated at about forty million dollars For the construction of this great work they will ask a grant of forty million acres of public land to be issued from time to time as sections are constructed, in warrants representing one hundred and sixty acres each, to be taken only by actual settlers For these lands they propose to pay into the Treasury, as the warrants are issued one dollar per acre. They will also agree that all lands granted them unoccupied by actual settlers at the end of twenty years shall revert to the Government. In order to carry out such a scheme which will be presented in good faith a system of sale of these lands in Europe to intending emigrants and their transportation to and settlement in this country is being organised.

Gen Longstreet the ablest of the Confederate fighting [illegible] has incurred a [illegible] colored [illegible] in New Orleans by his presence in their ranks The San Francisco Examiner the organ of the Confederacy [illegible] wishes the celebration of the Fourth of July abolished because colored men are to be allowed to participate

A band of Sioux in the recent Indian campaign were pursued by a body of cavalry The Indians seeing that escape was hopeless sat quietly on their horses till the troopers rode up and then by a sudden display of their blankets so terrified the animals ridden by the soldiers that a stampede occurred among them, while the Indians made good their escape

When it asserted that some nations were fitted to be growers of wheat, and others to be grinders of it that some nations were fitted for cutting down trees, and others for sawing them into lumber that some were to be hewers of wood and others carriers of water, it would be regarded as the height of absurdity yet the whole argument in favor of free trade depends upon the similar assertion that England and other European nations are naturally fitted to work up our cotton, wood grain and ores, and that we are naturally fitted only to produce those raw materials

The course of true love is often rough, but not often so much so as in the case of Miss Ida Huth, who committed suicide in Omaha not long ago The girl was engaged to one young man and thought she loved him but another charmer came around and as she loved No 2 better, she threw No 1 overboard And here's where the trouble came in, for No 1 wouldn't stay overboard but came back and swore he would kill himself if she didn't consent to marry him She consented and No 2 went overboard and with him her happiness He hadn't sense enough to come back and swear he would commit suicide, and make her have him over again So she moped and made ready to marry the man she didn't love, and just before the wedding shot herself with a pistol The curtain falls with final exhibition of frantic grief and touching despair on the part of all concerned

It is of no use to dispute the fact that they understand a thing or two in Boston Last Wednesday the free public baths of that city were opened for the season—eleven baths for men and boys and five for women and girls These are absolutely free to all who will behave themselves every convenience being afforded for bathing in salt water kept from stagnation by the rise and fall of the tide This is only one of Boston's sanitary precautions The good old city is always thoroughly clean nobody without prosecution, conviction and penalty can maintain a nuisance the streets are carefully looked after every medical man makes himself a sort of sanitary inspector, and considers it a professional duty to report to the authorities all manner of dirty delinquencies Heavy may be the howls of the unwashed but nobody regards them The policy of cleanliness is fixed after the Median and Persian style

Our Faith with Denmark

Gen Raasloff the Danish Minister of War and Navy, has resigned on account of the failure of the treaty with the United States for the purchase of St Thomas and has given an explanation of his course in a speech to the Danish Rigsdag or House of Commons His speech distinguishes his integrity It shows that he had long resided in the United States, and had formed a high opinion of the people and therefore when the purchase was urged by the United States upon the Danish Government and he was called to the Cabinet he naturally took a leading part in the negotiation and he entered upon it with entire faith in the United States and by this means he became to a large degree a voucher in their integrity

When the ratification was obstructed he felt it his duty to go to Washington at the call of his Government We quote from his speech

It was during that stay in Washington that I became fully aware how much I had exposed myself on behalf of the United States I could no longer remain blind to the fact that having availed myself of the opportunities which my position as a member of the Cabinet and as a former envoy afforded me to satisfy our Government that it ran no risk in entering with the great republic upon negotiations for the cession of territory negotiations which are always of a most delicate nature I had gone so far that if the people for whom I had vouched should leave me in the lurch the blow would for me be very severe, and would be one of those events which take away at least for a time a man's vigor and courage, his confidence in himself as well as a faith in those things which we ought to be able confidently to rely upon I became firmly convinced that in case I should by such an event be deprived of the qualities [illegible] which in my opinion a member of the Cabinet ought to possess in the fullest measure I could no longer occupy the responsible position held by me at that time and for some time subsequently Having arrived at this conviction I at the time communicated it to the honorable President of the Council and since then nothing has occurred that could make me view this matter in a different light or shake the determination that I had arrived at while in Washington I do not know whether I have succeeded in making honorable members view this question as I do but you will surely admit that in a case like this a man must judge for himself and not [illegible]

M[illegible] Fiend[illegible] AND [illegible] WARFARE—DROPPING EARTHQUAKES OUT OF THE SKY

It would seem that the money and labor that have been so lavishly expended particularly in England [illegible] ships of war and [illegible] cannon have been so much wasted if the report of some supplementary experiments be true In the previous trials attention was confined to horizontal firing and iron clads and forts have been mainly built with this view We are now threatened with a kind of [illegible] warfare by the use of gigantic mortars which will attack from above Two of these disagreeable machines have been constructed at Woolwich which are capable of throwing a shell weighing with its powder charge nearly a ton and a half Shells from these mortars propelled by seventy pounds of powder have been projected more than a mile and a half, and on falling have pierced the earth to a depth of twenty five feet The effect of such a projectile would be most terrible not only on board ship but on land too It would be like the springing of a mine and would destroy the strongest construction [illegible] These mortars are thirty six inches in diameter and it is said there would be no difficulty of increasing the range of their shells to three or four miles Of the tremendous effect of bombshells it is hardly necessary to speak one [illegible] on board the French ship Terrible in the year 1690 blew away the poop and a large portion of the upper works and killed or disabled one hundred men and it was not near the [illegible] of the modern productions It is anticipated that mortar firing will henceforth absorb much of the attention that horizontal firing has monopolized and necessitating a [illegible] change in fort and naval architecture The mortars hitherto used have been of a comparatively small capacity but the English war officials have a plan for constructing and using mortars containing a propelling charge of 140 pounds of powder the shell having a diameter of thirty six inches One of these dimensions would be a sufficient dose for any kind of ship or fort either for that matter if it exploded inside —N Y [illegible] Advertiser

CITY.

ABOUT COWS AND SUCH.—Mr. J. F. Caples and several others have petitioned the Council to so amend the ordinance which forbids the running at large of cattle in this city, as to permit the running at large of cows actually giving milk and not breachy, upon the payment of license fees by the owners. This strikes us as nearly tantamount to a removal of the prohibition altogether, as nearly all the cattle kept in the city are milk cows. Who is to determine whether a cow is "breachy?" We never found but one man, the owner of a cow, who would acknowledge that his cow was at all breachy. The fact is, however, that about the only animals which give any trouble are the cows actually giving milk, and of these, the cows actually giving milk are always the most ravenously hungry, the most breachy and most given to cussedness in general. They, of all loose stock, are just the animals that pounds were invented for, and against which the terrors of the law are fulminated. In the name of all the martyrs to cows, we protest against letting loose the [illegible]. Turn out the hogs and the [illegible], and all that style of nuisances, if you must, but, most potent, reverend and grave city fathers, don't ruin all the sweet dispositions of your [illegible] by turning loose upon us the ravenous, [illegible], fence-breaking, gate smashing, [illegible] stripper.

NEW TIVOLI THEATER.—Boucicault's great sensation drama of "The Streets of New York," was [illegible] last night. Mr. Bates as Badger was particularly successful, frequently bringing down the house with hearty applause. This is one of his best characters; and Mr. Bates never fails [illegible] when engaged in a personation [illegible] to take any pride. Mr. Vinson gave a very good Puffy and Clinton succeeded remarkably well with the character of Dan. Miss Ella Pixley was a most excellent Mrs. Puffy. This young lady is really showing a great deal of ability and quite extraordinary talent for one [illegible]. Mr. Melville's Bloodgood was only [illegible]. Miss Ingles managed the ungrateful [illegible] character of Alida Bloodgood quite [illegible]. Miss Annie Pixley needs to cultivate [illegible] before she will succeed with such [illegible] as Lucy Fairweather. Whether or [illegible] there is to the audience a seeming of [illegible] in her handling of words, which she [illegible] means to overcome. She looked the [illegible] very prettily, but otherwise her performance was not so good as she, herself, can [illegible]. The Streets of New York will be repeated to-night for the last time. The street [illegible] scenes are got up in splendid style.

[illegible] CASE OF TRICHINÆ.—A correspondent at [illegible] Soda Springs, writes, June [illegible]: "A party of French, camped here, killed a [illegible] which was found to be literally [illegible]. It was first noticed in the [illegible] closer investigation, in every part [illegible]. A number of families ate of it for [illegible] before it was discovered to be diseased, [illegible] cooking, that I know of. The [illegible] of trichinæ in venison killed in its [illegible] has created quite an excitement [illegible] the hunters."

[illegible] CONTRE.—Miss Mattie Field, an ac[illegible] here last year, with the Bates Company, [illegible] for some months lecturing in Cal[illegible] subjects, but principally on [illegible] taking the negative side of that [illegible] a private letter to a gentleman in [illegible] that she will be here in July, [illegible] one or more of her lectures. She [illegible] among the blue stockings [illegible] women, both male and female.

[illegible] CONVENTION.—The Oregon [illegible] says: "A Convention of Good [illegible] District will be held at La[illegible] 1870, commencing at 7 o'clock [illegible] being the mutual interchange of [illegible] and the taking of such [illegible] may be thought best for the good of our [illegible] full degree members in good [illegible] are cordially invited to attend. [illegible] district convention is to be held [illegible], Washington county on [illegible]

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.—Thursday, [illegible] Benjamin Stark; in equity; [illegible] injunction restraining defendant [illegible] judgment obtained against com[illegible] for [illegible] of Lots 1 and 2, and [illegible] Block 81, in the city of Portland. Hearing [illegible] for preliminary injunction; argued [illegible] Logan for complainant, Strong [illegible]. Adjourned to Tuesday, 28th inst.

[illegible]—The County Surveyor elect, M. [illegible] filed his bond ($5,000) yesterday, in [illegible] the County Clerk; sureties, J. N. [illegible] and P. W. Quimby. Mr. W. H. Wet[illegible] Justice of the Peace for Couch's Precinct, filed his bond ($1,000); sureties, W. W. [illegible] and Henry Everding. Mr. John Ken[illegible] County Commissioner, has entered upon [illegible] of his office.

[illegible] STEAMER DAYS.—The N. P. T. Co. [illegible] that hereafter a steamship will leave [illegible] for Portland every Monday, and [illegible] will sail from Portland every Tues[illegible]. The [illegible] steamships advertised for this [illegible] are the Moses Taylor, Idaho and California.

[illegible]—We beg pardon of the little motto-[illegible] at the Floral Festival for the queer name [illegible] gave them. It was no fault of the [illegible]. We wrote "ninety motto-makers," [illegible] made it "windy motto makers." [illegible] sometimes made by the [illegible]

[illegible] THE VIEW.—Nothing has yet been heard from the prisoners, Trainor and Faik, who [illegible] the other night from the county jail. The [illegible] is anxious to learn whether they are well, [illegible] call or send their address, they [illegible] to their advantage.

CITY POUND.—The Marshal, under instructions from [illegible] of the Council, has caused a [illegible] on the Raleigh tract, for the [illegible] animals found running at large [illegible] ordinance. Wednesday evening the [illegible] $180 to pay for it.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The Committee of Arrangements failed to get together at the time appointed, and those who did meet, adjourned sine die. [illegible] celebration, therefore; but Mr. [illegible] says the fire-works will [illegible] all the same.

[illegible]—Mr. C. Beel, Grand W. [illegible] will start this [illegible] up the valley. He will, this [illegible] Benton and Linn counties. He has [illegible] a dozen appointments to fill in [illegible] county.

CATTLE DRIVING.—During the week quite a number of droves of cattle have arrived at or passed through this city. We noticed one very fine drove of cows and heifers, designed, probably, for stocking a ranch east of the mountains.

[illegible]—The propeller Geo. S. Wright, which has been lying up at this port for several months, will sail on the 1st of July, for San [illegible] Fort Tongas, Fort Wrangle and Sitka. The Wright is to carry the U. S. mail.

[illegible] IN THE RIVER.—It is reported that the bark Pallisburg is in the river, having arrived [illegible] days from Honolulu. She has a cargo [illegible] products—sugar, coffee, fruits, etc.

CITY TAX SALES.—Considerable real estate was sold yesterday by the Marshal to make delinquent taxes, and a number of parcels remaining [illegible] the sale was continued till to-day.

DROWNED MAN FOUND.—A letter from Aldrich's [illegible] on the Columbia, reports the finding of the body of a drowned man near Cathlamet last Monday.

ERROR.—In the list of consignees of cargo per [illegible] Corbett & Macleay should have been [illegible] for 903 packages instead of 263.

ARRIVED.—The steamship Moses Taylor arrived from San Francisco last evening, with 188 passengers and a full freight.

MILITARY.—Both the Washington Guard and [illegible] Guard will meet to-night at their respective armories.

[illegible]—The bark Ida F. Taylor is reported [illegible]

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON JUDGE.—Thursday, June 23. State of Oregon vs. Theodore Michaels; indictment for malicious injury to property; verdict of jury, "not guilty," and defendant discharged.

State of Oregon vs. John Wall, indictment for assault with a dangerous weapon; verdict of jury "not guilty."

State of Oregon vs. Wm. Maroney, indictment for assault with a dangerous weapon; continued till next term of Court.

State of Oregon vs. Henry Spence; indictment for robbery. Pending the empanneling of a jury the Court adjourned.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY JUDGE.—Thursday, June 23.—Petition for adjudication of bankruptcy filed by Albert H. Kallenberg, of Portland, druggist; liabilities about $7,000. Referred to Register.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.—We call the attention of those looking for homes in Oregon to the list of Farms, and land offered by Messrs. Parrish & Atkinson in our advertising columns. The list comprises farms of all sizes and values, in all the counties contiguous to Portland.

OREGON.

Chris Swineburgher of Salem, fell from a ladder on Wednesday and broke his leg.

Patrick Gass, the only survivor of the Lewis and Clarke expedition that came out to Oregon in 1804, died recently in West Virginia; aged 98 years.

At the last meeting of the Council of Eugene City, Mr. A. A. Smith resigned the office of City Recorder, and Mr. J. F. Brown was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The Statesman says: Sheriff Ferguson arrived by boat last evening, bringing George Lennon to the penitentiary to serve a term of two years for burglary. Lennon was formerly a resident of Salem.

A Eugene paper says: A party of prospectors left this place during the week for the Blue River mines. A quartz miner from Nevada is among the number, and it is possible that some new developments may be made.

A Horrible Story.

BRIGANDAGE IN CHILI—THE TALE OF A CAVE.

A horrible story of brigandage reaches us from Chili. Lagoberin, a notorious bandit captain, was so closely pursued by a body of South American troops recently that he was compelled to desert his band of brother cutthroats, who had been the terror of the whole country round, and take refuge in a cavern situated near the summit of one of the lofty mountains of the Sierra Profunda. In this cavern he had concealed a female captive, whose husband he had robbed and slain. The soldiers made several ineffectual attempts to reach the abode of the culprit. Lagoberon, a man of gigantic stature and herculean strength, succeeded in beating them off by rolling heavy rocks down upon them whenever they approached. The officer in command of the troops resolved at first to starve the bandit out, but after two days' blockade grew weary of so tedious an expedient, improvised an escalade of the chieftain's stronghold, and succeeded in capturing him. To their horror upon entering the cavern they found the poor woman in a dying condition, Lagoberon having cut off one of the breasts of his unfortunate captive and eaten it. The inhuman butcher was conveyed to Talca, where he was promptly tried and condemned to die by the garrote. He was speedily conducted to the scaffold, and while the executioner was engaged in adjusting his toilette de mort the convict drew a whistle which he had concealed in his pocket, and blew it sharply; whereupon about sixty of his followers, who had introduced themselves amongst the crowd surrounding the scaffold, rushed upon the gendarmes and massacred them ere they could offer any resistance. They then freed their chief and garroted his would-be-executioner, after which they escaped, almost unscathed, to the mountains, facilitating their flight by seizing the horses of the murdered gendarmes. They also carried off several women from the throng gathered to witness the execution.

The irrepressible editor of the Caucasian, a weekly paper published in Missouri, declares that he will never quit editing while God gives him strength "to swing a pencil or stick a moral cockle burr under the crupper of 'loyalty' and sham piety." "Never, never till Radicalism, with all its vile myrmidons and horrid paraphernalia, is scourged howling back to its native hell." "Never till the shackles are stricken from the limbs of forty millions of American white bondsmen, and Freedom, Peace, Prosperity, once more reign triumphant from Moosehead Lake to Popocatapetl, from Skoodoowabookski to Okeefeenokee." The immediate cause of this heroic resolution on the part of the gentle editor is the promulgation and enforcement of the Fifteenth "bedamnedment" throughout the "United States of New Africa." Exercised is no name for the state of his feelings. He must "let off" or burst. Just listen to his tale of woe:

Twenty thousand niggers, baboons that only shed their tails a generation ago, boorish savages, whose relations are to-day, dining on roast old women and fricasseed baby, to whose cannibal tastes, no dish is so dainty as nicely stewed North Methodist missionary—twenty thousand gibbering apes—niggers, ignorant as mules, and with no more soul than the same number of good Newfoundland dogs—ARE VOTERS—CITIZENS—SOVEREIGNS—IN MISSOURI—AND SIXTY THOUSAND WHITE MEN ARE DISFRANCHISED, POLITICAL OUTCASTS, SLAVES!

This is agonizing indeed. The case is one that calls for sympathy. Not at all is to be commended is the course of an Indian newspaper which violently attacks this miserable editor, and gets itself referred to as a "little nigger newspatorial snout-rag, all the way from Mormon shaming Indians," and otherwise severely used up. Soothing sirup and kind treatment must be employed in such cases. The action of the brain is not quite regular and the subject is not to be held responsible of course.

GRANT'S GRAMMAR.—The Chicago Evening Post gives the following for the benefit of the New York World, which has been exercising itself over Grant's grammar:

The New York World is agitating itself in the most lively manner over "Grant's grammar," the President having in his special message, used the phrase, "a nation with which the United States is at peace" [illegible] that he ought to use the plural verb "are" in stead of "is." Now, we respectfully submit that this is not a question of grammar, but a question of politics, and that it was settled by the war. Before the rebellion it might have been considered proper to say "the United States are a confederacy of sovereign States;" but now we say "the United States is a nation." The very thing that Lee surrendered at Appomattox was the plural of the verb.

An additional lot of those handsome suits worn by everybody, both heavy and light weight, was received by Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street. They are equal to the best custom-made and pleasing to all men that wear them. They also received an extra fine lot of striped calico shirts and Star white shirts.

Their stock in clothing is the largest and finest in Oregon and sold at extreme low prices.

THE BIRDS AND THE BOYS.—Robins and wrens are very sociable birds, and build their nests in many queer places, but always near the haunts of men. One would think they liked the noise and bustle of happy home life, but very likely they are quite as fond of scraps and crumbs which they pick up. But I was about to tell you of a very old place for a nest a mother robin once chose. She entered a boys' school room, in vacation time, and built her nest on a shelf between two parcels of books. The boys came back, and the teacher explained to them the case, and showed how the birds had trusted them. Surely there was not a boy present who would be so dishonorable as to betray that trust. Thus placed upon their honor, the hundred boys left the nest unmolested for the whole five weeks in which she was busy over her nest. The mother robin came and went at all hours, through the window left open for her, bringing her chicks, worms, and bugs, and grasshoppers without number. Nothing seemed to disturb her. Greek, Latin, and mathematics were all one to her. Not even the boys singing in the morning worship frightened her in the least.

When the little birds could fly, they were permitted to depart in peace. The boys had all learned an excellent lesson in self-control, and a curious one in natural history, which they would not be likely to forget.

It always does us good when we have been kind to these little creatures God has made, and nothing hardens the nature faster than cruelty to them. Of all things, it is dishonorable to capture and distress a dear little bird which has come down and thrown itself on our charity, asking only for a niche in our apple-tree, and a handful of crumbs now and then from our table.—Presbyterian.

GENERAL GRANT AND THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.—In his speech at the celebration of the ratification of the fifteenth amendment in Baltimore, on Thursday, Postmaster General Creswell said: "It was not permitted that Lincoln should survive to see this glorious consummation; but the great Captain in whom he trusted implicitly, and to whom, in his last speech, he attributed all the honor of leadership in the stupendous military operations which closed the war, now by authority of the people occupies the Presidential chair. In his inaugural address he expressed a desire for the ratification of the fifteenth amendment; and he has ever since shown his sincerity by his unceasing labors to accomplish that result. His anxiety may be gathered from the language of his recent proclamation, where he declares the ratification to be 'the most important event that has occurred since the nation came into life.' To him more than to any other living man is its final success attributable. The leading part which he has taken in dashing the colored race to freedom and to the service of our common country, has crowned his career with the most admirable triumph of his life, and has fully established the truth of that saying once applied to Cromwell, but which Cromwell lived to verify only in part:

> 'Peace hath her victories,
> No less renowned than war.'"

Queen Victoria showed herself to the public lately to their great delight. Says a London letter: "The Queen has a particularly graceful manner, and her very bow, when acknowledging the greetings of the people is worth going a good way to see. But I think the prettiest sight I ever saw was when she led the Princes of Wales forward in response to cheers also awarded to her. The Queen seemed even more gratified by this demonstration than by that made to herself. Of course these ceremonies are always very brief, and the royal presence was vouchsafed only for a few minutes, but I feel certain during those few minutes the Queen, to use a familiar American expression, made no end of capital, and went home more firmly seated in the hearts of her people than ever. Her Majesty also did another graceful thing this week. While General Gray, her late Private Secretary, was lying unburied, his favorite daughter gave birth to a son, and the Queen, to testify her respect for his memory, came up to town and personally stood godmother at its baptism. It is such acts as these that make Her Majesty so much beloved. It may be interesting to mention that the child so honored was born Earl of Burford, and that he is a lineal descendant of the famous Nell Gwyn, the only one of the numerous mistresses of Charles II. whose memory has been preserved with any degree of respect.

Thrice Armed!

Thrice is he armed who keeps within reach of his hand [illegible] strengthen, regulate and purify his system [illegible] disordered and corrupted.

Such is the three-fold [illegible] Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and hence the [illegible] standard vegetable restorative over all [illegible] tonics and nothing else. The effect of the ordinary astringent tinctures and [illegible] on the bowels is disastrous, and upon the [illegible] bile they produce no beneficial effects whatever. In dyspepsia and liver complaints all the fluids and humors of the body are more or less infected and the bowels are often badly constipated. An unmodified astringent quinine for instance—does infinitely more harm than good in such cases. In Hostetter's Bitters, on the other hand, the stimulating and tonic elements are qualified with aperients and antiseptic [illegible]. The finest laxatives and blood depurents in the vegetable kingdom are intermixed with those of a [illegible] invigorating nature, and under the operation of this admirable combination, the three important processes of invigoration, regulation and purification go on together. [illegible] the rapidity with which the disordered organization [illegible] to its natural condition, under a course of the Bitters [illegible] is due to this cause. Every disturbed function of the [illegible] is favorably affected by the various properties of this [illegible] and well [illegible] preparation. As [illegible] the bowels are subject to irregularities, and the [illegible] is liable to become vitiated, and hence the Bitters are specially valuable as an alterative, corrective and [illegible]. In all districts where the seeds [illegible] fevers infect the air, the healthful vegetable elixir should be taken as a protective medicine.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

Don't follow blind Guides.—The sick never lack advisers. Every friend has some new remedy to propose. The result is that the stomach of many an invalid is converted into a sort of medicinal cess pool, in which powerful drugs are continually seething and fermenting. The effect of this experimental treatment in dyspepsia and bilious complaints is frightful. The simpler the medicine the more ready it assimilates with the animal fluids, and of all preparations intended for indigestion and biliousness, TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT, prepared after Nature's formula, and absolutely identical with the waters of the famous German Spa, is indisputably the best.

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

320 ACRES OF LAND, IN JACKSON COUNTY, for sale or exchange for city property. It is in the suburbs of Gasburg. Gasburg, like the beaver, is all "terminus." The branch of the Central Pacific Railroad will intersect the Oregon and California road at Gasburg. The Oregon Central will run through it, as does the stage road now, and many a railroad as yet unthought of, will find its "terminus" in Gasburg. The warm and dry winters, the mild Italian summers, the gushing spring water at short intervals, the lofty peaks of the Cascades on the east, the Coast Range on the west, the broad and fertile valleys on the north and south, and last, but not least, the inexhaustible forests in every hand, make it naturally one of the finest "terminuses" that ever was attached onto the "other end" of any railroad. Also a one-third interest in a water-ditch a [illegible] forty acres of mining lands, which have been worked for nine years and never failed to pay a dividend. Strawberries 5 cts. per pound, ONE MULE at 20 cts per pound, and groceries in proportion.

The Lost Bridegroom

In a [illegible] mountainous district of Wales is situated a mining village noted not only for the beauty of its surroundings but for the [illegible] little story which the miners tell to their children as in stormy winter evenings they gather around the [illegible] hearth

Years ago in this little village of —— there was a [illegible] neatly kept cottage where an old miner dwelt with his wife and only child [illegible] Alick [illegible] who in his first descent into the mines with his father

One evening as the old man was returning home from a neighboring village his attention was attracted by a plaintive sound. Approaching the help[illegible] he found a little girl. She was weeping bitterly. Tears stained her pale cheeks and her thin hands were closed together piteously. A few broken almost inarticulate words told that she had been deserted by her mother. They had seated themselves by the roadside to rest. The child, weary and hungry, had cried itself to sleep and, while she was sleeping, the unnatural parent had forsaken her.

The old man was touched by the incident. Kneeling beside the girl he endeavored to soothe her distressing sobs and having promised her protection, wrapping her in his coat, raising her tenderly in his arms he wended his way homeward. Entering the cottage he placed the light burden on his wife's lap, saying

"God in his wisdom has seen fit to choose our home from all the other homes in the village to shelter this deserted child. Knowing your kind heart, wife, I did not fear to bring the little one to you."

The dame pressed the good man's hand affectionately in reply and Amy—for so the child was called—was soon seated before a simple repast.

Alick, on his return from the parish school welcomed the little girl with every expression of pleasure.

Years passed away, and Amy's childhood days were spent. She had become the pride of the village. All knew her story, admired the respect and devotion she accorded her adopted parents and watched with pleasure the growing affection between herself and Alick.

Without great claims of beauty there was nevertheless a charm about her which all recognized. Her truthful nature and loving character attracted young and old.

The miner and his wife were not surprised when Alick one day asked them for their consent to make Amy his wife, and to this request they accorded their heartfelt blessing.

The day for the rustic nuptials was named, and was looked forward to as an occasion of general rejoicing. The happy day arrived. Work was suspended that all might join in the merry-making. The guests having assembled, Amy, dressed in her white muslin and wreath of roses, was led into the room by the father.

Taking the hand of the trembling girl within his own, Alick, according to the long established custom of the village, led the way to the little vine-covered church where the parish priest blessed their love. Children strewed flowers by the wayside and sang gay songs. The future seemed to offer a bright promise for not a cloud darkened their humble union. Each guest had made a modest offering but to no one would Alick confide the nature of his gift, wishing as he did to excite an agreeable surprise.

When they had returned to the cottage Alick kissed his wife, telling her he would leave her but for a short season. His face was radiant with happiness as he turned away and all knew that he was about to produce the much talked of present. He left the house, and with one last, lingering look at the doorway where Amy stood waving a merry adieu, he hurried off in the direction of the old mines and a curve in the road soon hid him from view. As his little figure disappeared Amy uttered a faint sigh, suggestive of a dull foreboding evil or a fullness of her mirthful joy.

All eagerly watched for, and anticipated an immediate return. Hour after hour passed, and yet he came not. Evening closed in, and the guests, grouped around the room, whispered fears that harm had befallen him.

Days passed, and search had been made everywhere. Weeks followed, then months. But the bridegroom did not return. Nor could his absence and strange disappearance be accounted for. No clue was gained by by those who searched untiringly. At length hope was abandoned. The widowed bride clung tenaciously to one idea, which seemed almost like a folly, in life or death, she would see her husband again before she was called away from earth. This belief afforded her comfort, and the neighbors, while they did not share the conviction, humored her in the thought, and spoke regretfully of the sad changes that sorrow had wrought in her fresh young face.

Time passed and the grief stricken parents were gathered to their fathers. Amy had left the old home, and taken her abode in a tiny cottage upon the hillside. It was perched high on the hills and commanded a view of the old mines. She had chosen this spot because it was retired from the world, and there she dwelt alone, supporting herself by needlework which the peasantry carried to the neighboring towns and sold.

Forty years were gone, and but for the sad wistful face of Old Amy and the whispered stories of the peasantry, the unaccountable disappearance of Alick would have been forgotten. But the tale told in an under breath by many a hearth was, that Alick had been carried off by an evil spirit with whom he had held compact. Many even went so far as to say that his soul haunted the old cottage, and had been seen during stormy nights on the mountains. Amy indeed asserted that she had often heard his voice calling her, and the light that burned always from nightfall until dawn in her casement, told that her heart ever kept vigil over his fate.

Many were the changes that had taken place. Old familiar voices were hushed, kind eyes were sealed in death and the damp grass grew long and thick upon forgotten graves. In the village churchyard there was one grave which was well watched, and the stone ever white and free from stain. It bore the names of the dead miner and his wife. During the spring, summer and autumn sweet flowers bloomed above the departed, and hour after hour Amy sat beside that narrow mound plying her busy needle.

The old cottage continued to be thought haunted by ghostly visitors, and because of the superstition none would occupy it. It gradually fell into decay. The women of the village rarely passed the dead miner's house without offering a prayer for the restless soul.

The old mines having been worked it was at length determined that new excavations should be opened. Amid the operations a subterranean murmur was heard mingling with the sound of the pike. Suddenly a wailing cry rent the air and the earth seemed to tremble. Those above rushed in terror to the mouth of the pit, and the most fearless were about to descend, when the call bell was rung violently. Every rope was at once put in use while the miners were white and trembling with intense fear.

To every inquiry they accorded the most disconnected replies, such as "a [illegible] devil," "a miracle!" At length from one old man they gathered that they had worked steadily to open a communication between the old and new mine but finding only a small obstruction at last a sturdy blow was made and the dividing wall had given way that when the cloud of dust had passed from before their astonished eyes they saw a young man, that he was lying upon a rocky bed, he seemed to be sleeping, that his cheeks looked fresh and fair and that his lips were still red. Instead of approaching him they had fled in fright, filled with the belief that it was an evil spirit in human guise that they beheld.

The owner of the mine listened attentively. As the old man ceased he rushed forward exclaiming, 'To the mine! To the mine!' Soon the truth was known. Ere many minutes three miners issued forth bearing between them the body of the young man. With a feeling of irrepressible horror they laid him down upon the green sward. His clothes were odd and indicated a style worn years and years ago. All were, however, in a perfect state of preservation. He seemed dressed as though for a fete. In his hand he held a box. It contained a gold cross chain and medallion. Time had blackened these little gifts which the stranger had doubtless intended for some village maiden.

All the village ran to the spot anxious to test the truth of the strange story of the discovery. No one remembered to have seen the pale dead face and all looked with pity and tears.

They were about to raise the body and bear it away for burial when Old Amy was seen approaching.

They made way for her [illegible] and were struck by the singular expression of her face. Her eyes sparkled with new life and her steps [illegible] seemed almost to have gained the elasticity of youth. Waving them aside with an imposing dignity, she advanced directly toward the dead man. Kneeling she parted the dark hair on his brow and muttered in a tone of inexpressible love and tenderness his name—Alick.

The exploits of Weston have led to the overhauling of the history of great walkers. The greatest pedestrian of all was Captain Robert Barclay of Ury. In 1801 while in training to walk upon a wager he made in the park of Lord Faulkenberg, one hundred and ten miles in nineteen hours and twenty seven minutes. In 1806 he walked one hundred miles in nineteen hours over the worst road in the kingdom, and just at the breaking out of a severe storm. In 1809 when he was twenty eight years old, Barclay accomplished the great exploit of walking one thousand miles in one thousand hours. In the course of this feat his weight which was one hundred and eighty six pounds at starting fell off thirty two pounds. From these facts it will be seen that, brilliant as was Weston's success he has still a great deal to accomplish before his name can be found at the very head of the noble catalogue of walkists.

In a little town out West a lady teacher was exercising a class of juveniles in mental arithmetic. She commenced the question, "If you buy a cow for $10"—when up came a little hand. "What is it Johnny?" "Why you can't buy a kind of a cow for $10, father sold one for $60 the other day and she was a regular old scrub at that."

The Independent says that J. C. Baldwin, Esq, of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church New York gave $569,000 to various benevolent objects during the last fourteen years of his life and by his will gives $72 000 to various benevolent societies, and makes Williams, Wabash, Middlebury and Hamilton Colleges residuary legatees.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PORTLAND, Thursday, June 2[illegible] 1870

Gold [illegible] quoted at New York at 114[illegible].

Legal Tenders are quotable at 88½ buying @ 8[illegible] selling. Outside brokers ask 90c for small sums.

Rates of interest are without change. Remittances from the interior are getting better than at any former time during the year. Considerable dust is now coming in from the mines of Eastern Oregon. The money market is easy, the supply being fully equal to all legitimate demands.

There seems to be a fair amount of business doing in the general merchandise market. The sales of AGRICULTURAL GOODS continue large and shipments are going daily to all parts of the country. The farmers are buying more largely than in any former year and notwithstanding the stocks received and on hand from last year have aggregated large beyond any precedent in this market, the supplies of machinery and staple farm implements are not now very considerable.

HARDWARE—Trade in this line is decidedly looking up, and from now on a fair business may be confidently anticipated. All prices are firm but without change.

DRY GOODS—Business fair to good. We find quite a number of interior buyers on the market. The prospect is fair for a better than average trade for this season of the year.

GROCERIES—Till the arrival of the steamer now about due we have no changes in quotations. Business has ruled rather lively, there being fresh demands from the country in anticipation of the haying and grain harvest soon to commence.

The lately improved prospects for a good market season for grain has given a gratifying impetus to all branches of mercantile business and assurances of a prosperous year, all round.

PRODUCE—Flour a few days since took a little turn up in consequence of the advance in Eastern and European markets but the price has again subsided to $5 50@5 75 as the jobbing range for extra brands.

Wheat is a little better, good white going at 85@8[illegible]½c per bushel, no particular demand for red.

Oats have fallen from 50 to 45c.

Feed has advanced to $30 per ton as an inside figure.

Bran has also gone up, quotable at $[illegible] per ton.

California onions have made their appearance in the market at $3 per 100 lbs jobbing.

PROVISIONS—Bacon and hams are quite firm at 14½@16c. Eggs are scarcer and tending upward.

The market is abundantly supplied with small fruits and berries, at greatly reduced prices.

We learn from the Mountaineer that last week a severe frost visited the Klikitat valley W T doing considerable damage.

Reports from the Ochoco valley state that crops are in splendid condition. New settlers are flocking in from all quarters and taking up farms in the numerous valleys between Dalles and Crooked river.

The Columbia District Agricultural Society was organized at Dalles City on the 14th inst with the following officers: President, Dr R W Mitchell; Vice Presidents, Wasco county—John Irving, J H Ward, M C Nye, Wm McAtee, Robt Mays, Wm English and B T Wallace; Grant county—J J Cozart; Yakima county—J D Cock; Clickitat county—Geo Rowland; Walla Walla county—Major Rease; Union county—T J McComas; Baker county—H Edwards; Secretary, G W Waldron; Treasurer, Robert Grant. The President and Vice Presidents form a Board of Trustees who have the business management of the Society. The Society adopted the California State Rules to govern running and the National Trotting Rules to govern trotting and racing. H Karrison, James Bird and [illegible] were appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions and membership.

Markets by Telegraph

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Flour—City millers advanced their rates as given below; nevertheless outside brands sell at lower figures which in some cases show a difference of 15@25c per bbl. There is no export demand except for coast ports. The last news from Chile was not favorable for further immediate shipments in that direction. The stock at present in the market is light and the various city mills are doing but little pending the arrival of new wheat. Local brands, superfine in sks 196 lbs, $5 37½@5 50; extra in sks $6 12½@6 25.

Wheat—but few lots of new have been received. The three lots reported brought $1 70, $1 80 and $1 85 respectively. Another round lot of new sold on private terms but it is believed to be fully up to $1 85. In the absence of sales it is next to impossible to give reliable quotations. Market firm: choice, $1 85@1 9[illegible].

Barley—sold mostly for feed, at about $1 20. With the new crop already at hand, no advance on these prices is expected.

Oats—continue firm. The stock of old is not heavy. The demand is fair, and as the new crop is not expected for some time rates are well maintained at $1 55@1 [illegible]5 for California, and $2 per 100 lbs for Oregon.

Onions—[illegible] new crop, $1 25@1 3[illegible].

Provisions—Market firm for all kinds of meats. We quote California and Oregon bacon hams and lard at 16@16½. California smoked bacon [illegible]. Chicago and St. Louis sugar cured hams 25@26c.

Wool—sales since the 15th last aggregate 3[illegible] 000 lbs. Market steady, at 12½@15c for burry, 17@18 for medium, and 19@21 for fair to choice. Staple middlings have advanced.

Feed—$27 50@30, and fine at $35@37 50 per ton. [illegible] higher. Millers quote [illegible].

Fresh roll butter weak at 25@30. California firkin 24@30. Oregon do 18@20c. Eastern firkin 20@30c per lb. Large stock at 17@15.

No Eastern [illegible] in the market, though nominally quoted at [illegible].

Sales on the first of [illegible] California eggs at [illegible]. Oregon eggs in first hands. Last sales were at 25c.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering untold miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians [illegible] any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured [illegible] Dr Gibbon a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years and who is certain to cure them [illegible] without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] the welfare of their friends [illegible] pretended doctors [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days [illegible] public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Therefore be careful and make [illegible] fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emission, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and attacks [illegible] uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, and a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtaining immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON's responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use. For Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the Base quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of these self-styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoe makers, newspaper carriers [illegible] Look at the Directory for 186[illegible] and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition [illegible] advertising physicians [illegible] are bogus. There is no safety [illegible] Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus certificates, pretended patients' letters. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR J F GIBBON 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco [illegible]
